The Great White Shark

The Great White Shark is the world's biggest predatory fish. It can be 20 feet long and weigh more than 4,000 pounds. Sharks live in cold or temperate waters, especially off the southern coast of Australia, in South Africa, and California. They are gray, with a white stomach. Their teeth are very sharp and very sensitive. They eat fish, small sharks, dolphins, and seals. They swim very fast and jump out of the water when they attack. They don't attack humans often, except in movies!

Sharks reproduce by laying eggs. Great white sharks can live for more than forty years.
