There are around two million words in English today. Five years ago, Sir Bob Geldof began the search for his favorite word in English. The list of ten favorites includes "quidditch," a word used to describe a sport from the Harry Potter series written by J.K. Rowling. The word "muggle" from the same book is used to describe someone who is not a witch or a wizard.

The question is, will these words become accepted words in the English language? English is a language that continues to change as new words become popular. Some people think that with the development of the European Union, English will become a new language as it integrates more and more words from other European languages.

1. When did Bob Geldof begin to search for the favorite English word?

_____

2. Which two words from a well-known book series have become very popular in English?

_____

3. What does the word "muggle" mean?

_____
