An unlucky man

John Lyne could be the unluckiest man in Britain. His bad luck began when he was born with underdeveloped lungs. Then, as a child he got sick drinking a bottle of cleaning liquid. At the age of 14, he was struck by lightning while riding home on his bike and, later the same year, he nearly drowned in the sea. On a Friday the 13th, he fell from a tree and broke his arm. On his way to the hospital, the bus crashed and he broke a second bone in his arm!

As an adult, John was a miner. He nearly lost his life twice at the mine from falling rocks. One day when he was decorating his house, he touched a live electrical wire. Recently, John had a bad accident: he fell through a hole at work. This has put him out of action for more than 32 weeks. He hurt his back, left leg, and knees. Unfortunately, he is not sure if he will ever be able to go back to work.
