

Module 14 Money, money, money

1 These numbers are related to the Money Facts you saw on page 125. Can you remember what the numbers refer to? Write the information in the spaces below:

- 2 _____
- 17th _____
- 25 _____
- 34 _____
- 100 _____
- 150 _____
- 1929 _____
- 2002 _____
- 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 _____

Now look back at the text to check your answers.

2 Read this extract from an e-mail and complete the gaps with the verbs in the correct form or with already, just and never ... before.

I have to tell you what happened to me today at work. The day started normally for me. Well, I woke up a bit later than usual and had breakfast. When I _____ (finish) breakfast, I went down to the bus stop. Of course the bus was late, but after I _____ (wait) at the bus stop for about ten minutes it finally came. Anyway I ran up the road to work and I had _____ sat down at my desk when my boss came in and said she wanted to see me. She didn't look too happy! She took me up to her office. I had _____ gone into her office _____ today. She told me to take a seat and asked if I wanted coffee. All very nice but when I _____ (drink) the coffee she told me she wasn't happy with my work. She started to list all the reasons why I hadn't _____ (do) the job well from the beginning. I knew what was coming so I got up. I had _____ started to leave the office before she fired me!

Teacher's notes:

Module 14 Money, money, money

This worksheet is designed for use after completion of pages 124–127.

1 Students write what the numbers from the Money Facts on page 125 are related to. They can then check their answers with the text.

2 There are 2 possible results if you toss a coin: 'heads' or 'tails'.

17th In 17th century Sweden, the ten-daler coin weighed 19.71 kg.

25 More than 25 countries use dollars as their currency.

34 The world's smallest bank note was 34 mm x 45 mm

100 In Australia, the $100 dollar note is made of a type of plastic.

150 About 150 billionaires live in the United States.

1929 The heads on US dollar bills have not changed since 1929.

2002 On 1 January 2002 15 billion euro banknotes and 50 billion euro coins came into circulation.

100,000,000,000,000,000

The world's highest denomination note was the 100,000,000,000,000,000 Pengo note, issued in Hungary in 1946.

2

I have to tell you what happened to me today at work. The day started normally for me. Well, I woke up a bit later than usual and had breakfast. When I had finished breakfast, I went down to the bus stop. Of course the bus was late, but after I had waited at the bus stop for about ten minutes it finally came. Anyway I ran up the road to work and I had just sat down at my desk when my boss came in and said she wanted to see me. She didn't look too happy! She took me up to her office. I had never gone into her office before today. She told me to take a seat and asked if I wanted coffee. All very nice but when I had drunk the coffee she told me she wasn't happy with my work. She started to list all the reasons why I hadn't done the job well from the beginning. I knew what was coming so I got up. I had already started to leave the office before she fired me!